DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The term "audio quiz question" is not defined in the specification. The examiner could not find where in the specification it is disclosed that the quiz is an audio quiz. Further, applicant seems to give strong weight to the limitation of "quiz question", as apposed to the term "question" alone. The American Heritage Dictionary defines a quiz as "a questioning or inquiry". It is unclear what is added by changing "question" to "quiz question". Applicant should show clearly in the specification where the term "quiz" is defined to mean any more that just a question.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

5. Claims 1-7, as best understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Stetz, in Cell Phone Handbook.

With regard to claims 1, 6, and 7, Stetz discloses an input (carrier) configured to receive from a radio broadcast station (sending cell phone) an audio quiz question (phone number, page 38 last paragraph) and a station ID (ESN, page 38 last paragraph), and from a radio signal receiver (receiving cell phone) a second ID (second ESN), judging the validity of all the IDs, (pages 38-39) and assigning customer information to the receiving station ID (for billing, page 43), and outputting the customer information for receiving the identified question (on the bill). Stetz discloses how cell phones work. In a cell network the first phone calls by the second's number to request a reply. When he does, both ESN numbers are matched with customer information for billing, and to allow the call to go through. When the second phone turns on, it is sending out its ID, and it's asked to reply to the question, being its phone number.

With regard to claims 2 and 3, Stetz discloses checking the validity of the broadcasting identification (SID, page 38).

With regard to claim 4, Stetz discloses voice mail (pages 83-84), which is content requesting means asking the broadcasting phone to question the receiving phone.

With regard to claim 5, Stetz discloses over the air activation (page 50) where the carrier acquires user information from either phone.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 8 August 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that an audio quiz question does not read on a phone number. Applicant cites pages 88-89 of the specification where it states that an audio signal of a question has a predetermined period by which to respond. Applicant further argues that, while a phone number is an audio signal, it is not a question presented in a radio broadcast, which is intended to be answered by a listener of the radio broadcast. The examiner points out that phone numbers are intended to be answered, and are requests for a response, as outlined in the prior office action.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

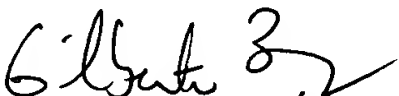

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

8. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Jacob Lipman whose telephone number is 571-272-3837. The examiner can normally be reached on M-Th 7 AM-3 PM.
